

KEY FACTS ON FLORIDA FOUNDATIONS

June 2008

Selected Grantmaker Data, 2006

In 2006, 3,874 independent, corporate, community, and operating foundations headquartered in Florida held assets of more than $19.2 billion and gave away nearly $1.2 billion. Nonetheless, the vast majority of Florida foundations are small. Overall, 62 percent of Florida foundations held less than $1 million in assets, and just over half gave less than $50,000.

Nearly half of all Florida foundations (1,923) have been established since 1995. In fact, three of the state's largest grantmakers in terms of giving and assets were established within the last decade: Wallace H. Coulter Foundation (2000); Flight Attendant Medical Research Institute, Inc. (2000); and Turner Global Foundation, Inc. (2004).

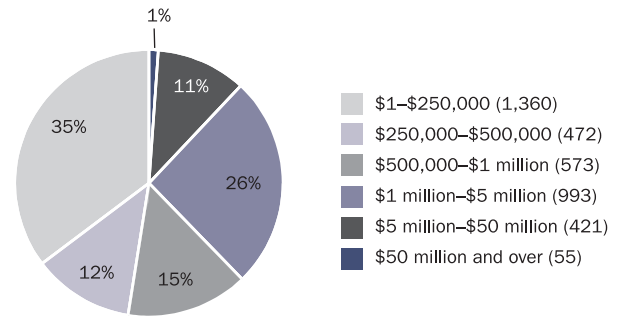

Independent foundations dominated the top 10 givers, which gave a total of $322 million, or 27 percent of all Florida foundation giving, in 2006. The 10 largest foundations held $5.9 billion in assets, which was just under one-third of all foundation assets.

Selected Giving Interest, 2006

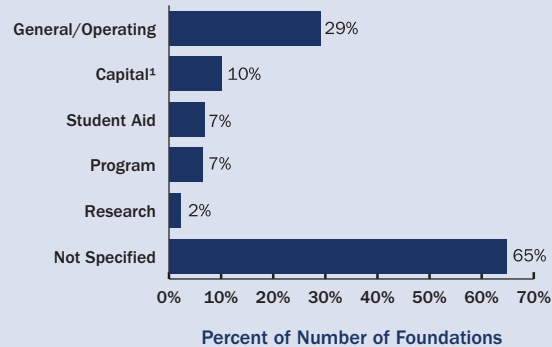

Major Fields of Interest for Florida Foundations, 2006

Note: Figures based on giving interests of 3,019 Florida foundations (78 percent) coded for fields of interest. There are 855 foundations that do not have identifiable fields of interest. Graph includes fields in which at least 5 percent of Florida funders demonstrate interest or a pattern of giving. A foundation can have more than one field of interest, so totals will exceed 100 percent.

¹Includes support for federated funds.

Major Types of Support for Florida Foundations, 2006

Note: Figures based on giving interests of 1,364 Florida foundations (35 percent) coded for types of support. There are 2,510 foundations that do not have identifiable types of support. A foundation can have more than one type of support, so totals will exceed 100 percent.

¹Capital support includes endowment funds.

The Foundation Center adds “fields of interest” and “types of support” codes to a foundation's record, according to its responses to the Center’s annual survey of larger grantmakers and the approximate distribution of the foundation’s grants. Although these statistics do not predict actual giving patterns, they do indicate the general interests of the state’s foundation community.
